Respond to the question in at least 50 words.

“Having a job can help teach responsibility. Teenagers should be required to have jobs to help them learn this valuable skill. Do you support or oppose this idea? Explain why.”

Many people think that having a job as a teenager can help teach responsibility, however, I do not support this idea at all. I do not think the majority of the population realizes how much responsibility teenagers already have without a job. They have a plethora of exams to study for and classes to pass. Many of them are part of clubs or sports teams, and adding a job to this would create additional stress. A teenager's first job should be to do well in school, and then to be part of a club or team. Finishing homework on time or participating in a club already teaches teens how to work well with others and complete their assigned duties. It would be detrimental to require them also to have a job.

“Describe a time you worked with someone on a group project who had different opinions than you about how it should be completed. How did you reach an agreement to complete the project? Did you receive a satisfactory grade?”

I often need to work on group projects with others and it happens a lot that we disagree and just have such different opinions. Usually, what I need to do to work things out between us is to explain why I feel the way that I do. In other words, I try to explain things to my group mates in a way that will help avoid conflict and encourage agreement. For example, the other day my colleague wanted to make an advertisement with some swear words to grab attention and make people laugh. I told him about another company that tried to do something similar and wasn't received well by the public. It was a big waste of time and money. So, this other group member realized what I was saying and in the end decided to go with my idea instead. This wasn't a school assignment so there was no grade at the end, but we did get a great reaction from the client and managed to create a really successful advertising campaign. Looking for ways to give suggestions and encourage agreement is, for me, the best way to work with others.

Describe the image. You have to speak for between 30-90 seconds.

There are two flight attendants walking down the street at a very brisk pace. They both are carrying briefcases and small black coolers. What is very peculiar is they have on the exact same outfit. They have on black skirt suits with black tights and black heels. They have their hair up and it looks like blue scarves around their neck. They are also wearing badges around their necks; these are probably ID cards so they can get access to the place where they work. I think that these women are flight attendants, and they are headed to the airplane so that they can get the plane ready for the next flight. Their briefcases are probably carrying a change of clothes for the flight they are about to take. The small black cooler bags they are carrying are holding a packed lunch so that when they have their break, they can enjoy a snack or even a small meal before they take care of the passengers on the plane again. They are walking between two white lines with bear claws. That must mean that this is a safe walking zone on the runway. I have never seen this before, and it is very interesting.

Describe a time when you were late for class.

- What did you do?

- How do you keep from being late to future classes?

A few months ago I was late for my Spanish class because I decided to go for lunch beforehand and then with the traffic it was difficult to get home very quickly and be on time online for the class. I probably should have realized that it wasn't going to be easy at that time of the day to get moving in the traffic and I felt really terrible that my teacher was waiting for me. I did let her know that I would be late but I still felt bad that I wasted her time. Now I make sure that I give myself even more time to move around and make sure that I take my computer with me so I can sometimes start a class or even do a full class in a different location, especially with online classes there's really no excuse to be late so I'm doing my best to be prepared for this in the future and so far I haven't been late again so I think it's working. Also I'm making sure to block off half an hour between classes because I think that gives me enough time to do what I need to, like get a snack or a drink or even a quick stretch.

Talk about someone who had a big impact on your life. Who were they? How did they help you? What changed because of them?

There are a lot of people who have had an impact on my life, but if I have to choose, then it would have to be my career advisor in high school. I remember when I was struggling to decide what I wanted to do at university, and I was just feeling a lot of pressure from certain teachers, especially my chemistry teacher and math teacher. They both wanted me to continue studying in their field since it would be good for the school's reputation and for them. This career advisor listened to my thoughts and then asked, 'But what do you enjoy? What actually gives you satisfaction in terms of a job?'. This simple question made me realize that I actually enjoyed languages and that was what I wanted to study and get involved in. Now I'm still working as a language teacher and the topic still fascinates me. I love my job and feel rewarded in this industry, so that career advisor really had an incredible impact on my life.
